

oikos Graz Partner Events for the EU Green Week 2023

Talk: “Women and Climate Change”

Climate change is not gender-neutral 🗣️ It has a disproportionately higher impact on women and girls as a result of existing gender inequalities and power structures across the globe.

🔔 Join three young female experts for a live discussion during the EU Green Week:

📅 Monday, June 6, 2023

🕒 6 pm (6-7 pm CET)

💻 online

✅ registration link: <https://shorturl.at/hrVW0>

🗣️ Meet the talk co-hosts:

Alexandra Kick, co-founder of Thinkubator, a think tank focused on circular economy, with a background in socioeconomics and international business

Chloe Brimicombe, a Climate Scientist and Post-Doc at the Wegener Center, University of Graz on the HIGH horizons project investigating heat impacts on maternal, newborn and child health in the EU and Africa

Victoria Yavorskaya, a PhD researcher in environmental science at University of Graz and an active member of oikos, a student organization for sustainability and responsible leadership

We will not only critically discuss what gender-specific risks climate crisis imposes on women and girls, but also how gender equality can become one of the solutions. Register for the event to keep yourself updated!
